INSTRUCTOR: Sue Wilcynski

You don't need to be an experienced potter to make a masterpiece vase - Just come with your love of creativity! Slabs will be rolled out on the first day. A choice of twelve different patterns will be offered to construct a large (approximately 12 inch) slab vase. Vases will be built on the second day. Designs are unlimited and can bring out your own unique style and personality. When dry, (in about a week) the vases will be fired. Students can then either apply glaze on their own, or another date will be arranged to meet with the instructor for advice and assistance. Vases can be picked up after the final firing.

Sue Wilcynski loves art and enjoys painting with watercolor (especially landscapes and florals) as well as acrylic. Working with glass (fusing, slumping, draping, etching and stained) also intrigues her. She has declared that, "Pottery is a passion for me". Her addiction began 28 years ago with a class at the Joslyn Art Museum in Omaha. She has taught pottery classes at several Arizona Art Associations and is anxious to share what she has learned with the FAAA membership.
